FREDERIC S. ISHAM

THE BOOKMAN, of Melbourne, records that "Under the Rose," the love story by Frederic S. Isham, is decidedly popular in Australia. It has been well received in London, also. The London Morning Post says it is "thoroughly enjoyable," and the Athenæum speaks of it as "lively, entertaining and vigorous." A new novel by the same successful author is promised for next month by the publishers. Harrison Fisher, who made the pictures for Mr. Isham's first book, "The Strollers," will illustrate it. The name of the forthcoming story is not yet announced, but it is understood to deal with "Black Friday" and the exciting times of the "corner in gold." Jay Gould appears as one of the characters.

Harper's September 8th Books

IMPERATOR ET REX

(WILLIAM II. OF GERMANY)

By the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress," "A Keystone of Empire," etc.

The anonymous author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress," whose unrivalled knowledge of European royalty and skill in portraiture have produced remarkable and widely read biographies of royalty, in this volume pictures Emperor William as he really is—his sympathetic character, his family, and charming home life. He is shown to be a warm-hearted and impulsive man, rather than a keen-minded and astute ruler, bent on promoting the grandeur of his empire. The book is instructive, entertaining and important.

Illustrated with Autograph Portraits of the Emperor and Members of the Imperial Family. Crown 8vo, Uncut Edges, Gilt Top, $2.25 net

A JOURNEY IN SEARCH OF CHRISTMAS

By OWEN WISTER

Owen Wister has written nothing about the West more delightful, humorous, and pathetic by turns than this Christmas tale. It is the story of a big-hearted cowboy's quest of a good time at Christmas, and how he found it in the acquaintance of a little city bootblack, whom he eventually took back to his mountain home.

Illustrated. Printed in Black and Tint, Decorated Borders. Uncut Edges, Gilt Top, in Box, $2.00

THE CASTLE COMEDY

By THOMPSON BUCHANAN

An engaging and delightful romance of the time of Napoleon. The sprightly way in which the story is told, the dashing impudence of the hero, and the charm of the heroine, combine with the beauty of the volume to make this book unusually attractive as a Christmas gift.

With Illustrations in Color and Marginal Decorations by Elizabeth Shippen Green. Uncut Edges, Gilt Top, in Box, $2.00 net

THE GEORGIANS

By WILL N. HARBEN

Author of "Abner Daniel," "The Substitute," etc.

The scene of Mr. Harben's new novel is the same as in "Abner Daniel," and the popular Abner is the chief character in this new book. The story deals with the troubles of two lovers whom the girl's father endeavors to separate; but Abner, with generous impulse, ingeniously brings them together. There are several subsidiary characters, who provide a great deal of mirthful entertainment. Abner himself, with his shrewd humor, pervades the whole, which is the strongest story of Georgian life Mr. Harben has written.

Post 8vo, Cloth, $1.50

JESS & CO.

By J. J. BELL

Author of "Wee Macgregor"

Mr. Bell in this story has surpassed his earlier success both in interest and in delightful humor. Jess is a plucky Scotch lass of the peasant class. She marries a happy-go-lucky Scotchman, not overfond of work, who carries on a decrepit carpenter trade. She takes an interest in, and then charge of, the business, bringing the family out a successful and happy one, in spite of the dismal prognostications of the village characters, who are all novel and wonderfully amusing

(Ready Shortly) A Chicago Princess

By ROBERT BARR

Author of "Over the Border," "The Victors," "Tekla," "In the Midst of Alarms,"
"A Woman Intervenes," etc.

A characteristic, breezy and humorous romance of an over-rich Chicago girl with a craze for titled personages.

The story is told by Rupert Tremorne, a former member of the English diplomatic service, who has found himself stranded in Japan by a series of curious circumstances. He becomes the secretary of the father of the heroine, a Chicago multi-millionaire, traveling in the East in his yacht. Here the story begins, and the action at once becomes as rapid as that of a Japanese campaign.

Tremorne takes the party to Korea, where the Emperor falls violently in love with the Chicago "Princess" and desires to marry her. His courtship is fast and furious and leads to many strange complications which Mr. Barr has told in his bright and vivid way.

The story satirizes certain nouveau riche American tendencies and is thoroughly original and "up to date," while the characters are all interesting. The book has above all things that merit which Mr. Barr's work never fails to possess—that of always entertaining the reader.

NOTES IN SEASON.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish shortly a new book by Robert Barr, entitled "A Chicago Princess," a characteristic, breezy and humorous romance of an over-rich Chicago girl with a craze for titled personages. The story satirizes certain nouveau riche American tendencies and is thoroughly original and up-to-date. The volume contains a number of illustrations.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 17th inst. George Barr McCutcheon's new novel, "Beverly of Graustark," which is pronounced by those who have read the work in manuscript to be fully equal in originality and interest to "Graustark." The work will have several illustrations by Harrison Fisher, printed in colors. They will bring out at the same time "The Revelation of Herself," by Mary Farley Sanborn; "Our Friend the Dog," by Maurice Maeterlinck; also, "Minnows and Tritons," by B. A. Clarke, a story for boys, brimful of adventure.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will have ready for shipment on October 5 a new book for children, entitled "The Pearl and the Pumpkin," by Paul West, with pictures, in colors, by W. W. Denslow, the illustrator of "The Wizard of Oz," etc. The text is a weird fairy story linking a fantastic past with the present day by a fascinating chain of events. They also call attention to the following new and popular books: "The Records," by Cyrus Townsend Brady; "The Letter H," by Charles Felton Pidgin; "The Red Window," by Fergus Hume; "Jim Hickey," by George V. Hobart; also, "Rena's Experiment," by Mary J. Holmes.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have just ready a new novel by Alfred Henry Lewis, entitled "The President." The novel is full of dramatic incidents, picturing striking phases of life in Washington, Wall Street and elsewhere, and revealing intrigues and sensational happenings. "The President" is more thoroughly a novel than "The Boss" in the development of love interest and in other respects. But in this, as well as in his former work, the author has drawn upon his extraordinary knowledge of the inside of political life. The volume has a number of colored illustrations by Jay Hambidge. They will bring out on the 15th inst. "The Pagan's Progress," by Gouverneur Morris, a romance of the primitive man in the days when the world was young, with some striking illustrations by John Rae.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready in the True Adventure Series a volume by Russell Doubleday, entitled "Stories by Inventors," the purpose of which is to give in a measure the adventurous side of invention—the trials and dangers of the builders of the submarine, the daring and skill of the engineer who drives a locomotive at a hundred miles an hour, etc. The story of the invention is told through the experiences of the inventor or the one who operates the invention. They have also just brought out "The Book of Indoor and Outdoor Games," by Mrs. Burton Kingsland, a veritable encyclopedia of games, pastimes and entertainments, which contains not only hundreds of old favorites, but a great number of new and ingenious games which have stood the test of actual trial; "Old Voices," a new book of poems and pictures of the old South, by Miss Howard Weeden; also, a new edition of Simeon Ford's book, "A Few Remarks."

Bechtel, J: H. 135,000 words spelled and pronounced; with valuable hints and illustrations for the use of capitals, italics, numerals, and compound words, also rules for syllabication and punctuation and a large list of homophones, designed for office, school and library use. Phil., G. W. Jacobs & Co., [1904. J.] c. 12+670 p. O. cl., $2 net.

According to the introduction, the special needs of English-speaking people and those who have a fair knowledge of idioms have been kept in view. Minor distinctions of vowel sounds, especially those occasioned by the absence of accent have been ignored. Believing that the appearance of printed words should be left as free as possible from foreign or extraneous signs and characters, the most limited use of diacritics consistent with the representation of correct pronunciation of words has been made, and only those signs in general use have been given. By the author of "Handbook of pronunciation," "Synonyms."

Bell, Ja. Joy. Jess & Co. N. Y., Harper, 1904. c. 4+297 p. S. cl., †$1.25.

A humorous story by the author of "Wee Macgregor," of a resourceful girl who marries a happy-go-lucky carpenter, more interested in flowers than in the problem of daily bread. Jess takes charge of the business and makes it pay, and incidentally changes the character of her husband.

Bell, Lilian, [now Mrs. Arthur Hoyt Bogue.] At home with the Jardines. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1904. [Ag.] c. '02, '04. 5+322 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Mrs. Jardine was the heroine before her marriage of "Abroad with the Jimmies." The first dream of her married life is to make a home in New York. Her experiences both in a flat and in a house, with servants, janitors, agents and owners are both valuable and extremely amusing. The "Jimmies," with other characters of the previous work, add to the liveliness of the story.

The author says in his preface: "This history begins when Pizarro and Almagro, Valdivia and Benalcázar, led their desperadoes across the Isthmus to the conquest, massacre, and enslavement of the prosperous and civilized millions who inhabited the Pacific Coast of South America. It ends with the United States opening a way through the same Isthmus for the ships, the trade, the capital of all the world; with American engineers laying railroad iron on the imperial highway of the Incas; with British bondholders forgiving stricken Peru's national debt; with their debtor bravely facing the fact of bankruptcy, and turning over to them all its railways."
- Deland, Ellen Douglas. Josephine; il. by W. E. Mears. N. Y., Harper, 1904. [S.] c. 5+273 p. il. D. cl., †$1.25.
A letter announcing the arrival of Jo and Georgie at their uncle's home in Massachusetts prepares their relatives to expect two boys. Their uncle, a busy doctor, his four boys and the housekeeper who rules over all with iron regulations are aghast when a girl of sixteen and one of nine appear and the boys and housekeeper show open hostility. Josephine's happy temperament conquers all and she is the bright cause of bringing about a reconciliation in the rich family next door that spreads gladness from Seattle to Massachusetts.

Queen Elizabeth is a leading character in this story of her court, being presented in more attractive guise than history generally depicts her. She is the protector of two young lovers, French Huguenots, who have fled to the Isle of Jersey in her domain, from their persecutors in France. The Earl of Leicester, whose influence over the queen is already waning, also appears, full of envy, and intrigue. The story is a simple one of true love that finds a happy ending. The first novel Sir Gilbert Parker has written since "The Right of Way."

Simply a pretty love story, told with much grace and delicacy. Music plays a strong part in it.

Scott, Hugh S., ["Henry Seton Merriman," pseud.] The Last Hope; il. by A. Forestier. N. Y., Scribner, 1904. [Ag.] c. 5+442 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The Last Hope was a schooner and the last ship ever built in Farlingford; her captain was reputed to have rescued Louis xvii. from drowning. According to the belief of many Royalists, the son of Marie Antoinette did not die in the Temple but was saved as stated above. The novel is founded on incidents of French history which were the outcome of the Royalists to elevate the son of this mysterious waif to the throne of France. Napoleon III. and other famous persons who lived in the times of the Republic are characters in the story.

Gives in story form the history of the Louisiana Purchase. The hero is introduced as a French drummer boy in the great battle of Hohenlinden. He distinguishes himself, and instead of promotion seeks from Napoleon permission to go to Louisiana in search of his father, who had gone there three years before. He serves as valet to Napoleon, and learns of the great events that are making history. Later he is sent with secret messages to the French in San Domingo and in Louisiana.

 The author is the son of the translator who first introduced Zola to English readers and suffered even imprisonment in his earnest efforts to make a great writer known to his countrymen. He has worked many years on this biography. It is a psychological study of Zola's mental gifts and peculiar deficiencies. Gives a complete history of the twenty volumes forming the Rougon Marquart series both in their literary and sociological importance. The exhaustive account of the Dreyfus case and Zola's unremitting work to obtain justice against military absolutism makes the book of value to historians and scholars.

"COPYRIGHT CASES AND DECISIONS."

THE American Publishers' Copyright League has done an exceedingly good thing in the interests of copyright, at the initiative of its secretary, George Haven Putnam, in causing to be compiled the volume on "Copyright Cases" which Arthur S. Hamlin has prepared and which is published for the League by G. P. Putnam's Sons. As its subtitle indicates, the volume comprises "a summary of leading American decisions on the law of copyright and of literary property from 1891 to 1903, together with the text of the United States copyright statute and a selection of recent copyright decisions of the courts of Great Britain and Canada."

The volume is in four sections, the first being the present copyright law as amended to 1904, the text prepared by Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. American court decisions follow, under the respective sections devoted to: Articles entitled to copyright; Formalities in obtaining copyright; Notice of copyright; Publication and its effects; Property rights and their transfer; Infringements and unfair use; and Remedies and penalties. The third division comprises decisions of the Treasury Department bearing upon importation, under the copyright law, of books and works of art, since, as the compiler truly says, "in the absence or in advance of judicial decisions, such rulings constitute the highest authority upon the questions with which they are concerned. The fourth division comprises a selection of decisions of English and Canadian courts which have indirect bearing upon our own questions of copyright, including a number of decisions on "Who are entitled to copyright." Finally there is a table of cases and a topical index.

The compiler has not attempted to give decisions in full, but his summaries are clear, and seem to be thoroughly informing. It has not been attempted to cite all cases and decisions, but to give the latest ruling decisions from the time of the passage of the so-called International Copyright Amendment to date. For instance, in respect to the reprinting of Webster's Dictionary, the Missouri case against the Famous Shoe Company, which was marketing a reprint of an early edition, is summarized, and two other cases have references. It would be interesting to analyze from these decisions the present trend of the courts regarding copyright, but the fact that copyright decisions are made in Federal courts throughout the many judicial districts shows frequent inconsistencies which can only be rectified when appeal is made to the final authority.

In his introduction the compiler takes opportunity to express, doubtless in line with the views of Mr. George Haven Putnam, cordial approval of a suggestion that has been made more than once by authors and others interested, in regard to the necessity for a thorough revision or reshaping of our copyright statute. He is in accord "with the recommendation that the framing of a satisfactory copyright act which shall have for its purpose an equitable and adequate protection for the producers of intellectual property and which shall be so worded as to carry out that purpose effectively, should be entrusted to a commission of experts. Such a commission should comprise representatives of the several interests to be considered: producers of works of literature, of art, and of music, and publishers of works of art, of books, and of newspapers. The commission should also include a skilled copyright lawyer, and it might be in order to add some representative of the general public who would have no direct property interests in the results of such a bill as may be framed. As such a commission, possessing the requisite authority, would naturally be constituted under an Act of Congress, it would also, according to the usual routine, include representatives of the Senate and of the House of Representatives. All existing copyright statutes of the world, excepting that of the United States, have been the work of commissions of experts. The members of these commissions have had authority to summon witnesses and to take testimony, and after having devoted sufficient time to the mastery of the details of a subject which is of necessity complex and which certainly calls for expert training and for expert experience, they have presented their conclusions in the form of a report containing the specifications of the legislation recommended. The copyright laws of the states of Europe have, without an exception, been based upon such recommendations. With the co-operation of such a commission, it ought to prove practicable to secure a copyright statute which should give due consideration to all the interests involved, and which should be sufficiently consistent in its provisions to obviate the necessity of the large proportion of copyright issues that have arisen from the unnecessary complexity of the provisions of the existing statute and from the difficulty, and in some cases the impracticability, of fulfilling the obligations imposed by this statute." This is an excellent statement of the procedure which is desired by all true friends of copyright progress.

MAGAZINE WRITING AND LITERATURE.

THE complaint made by some recent critics, to the effect that the magazines have had an injurious influence upon the quality of present-day literature, has elicited from Henry Mills Alden, the veteran editor of Harper's Magazine, a rejoinder which is published, under the title of "Magazine Writing and Literature," in the September number of the North American Review. For more than two centuries there has been an intimate relation between the periodical publications of a country and its literature. The Spectator, The Tatler and The Rambler of the eighteenth century were addressed to the "town;" they contained contributions from the wits of the town, and these have become a recognized part of English literature. Later, The Gentleman's Magazine and Blackwood's conveyed to the world the productions of the most brilliant writers of the day; and the monthly magazines that followed were not behind the best contemporary literature in their literary reputation. In like manner the American magazine has always shared the glory of the best American literature. Since the time of Poe, who did the very best of his work for magazines, to the present day, our great writers have been inseparably associated with our periodical literature. Mr. Alden deprecates the servility to the traditions of the past which would raise them to the dignity of exclusive standards of excellence, and which would ignore or overlook what is admirable in new literary forms in vital sympathy with changed and changing conditions. Mr. Alden thus defines the scope of the magazine:

"In our first-class magazine nature sketches find a place, in due proportion, and in greater variety than ever before. The charge against these magazines, that they have given up their space mainly to fiction and fail to meet the wants of readers in other directions, is made perhaps without due examination. New disclosures of physical phenomena; luminous interpretations of history; revisions of old and mistaken views based upon freshly discovered material; the most recent revelations of archaeological exploration; the result of current sociological experimentation; studies of tendencies characteristic of the civilization of to-day and of imperfectly understood conditions of civilization in earlier times; studies also which are the result of travel and observation among peoples never before heard from and of the reaction of a creative imagination upon material which seemed familiar, but which for the first time yields to a new interpretation its inmost secrets—affording a fresh field of wonder; narrations of singular adventure; all this from writers the most authoritative, where first-hand authority is essential, and, as to those themes whose treatment depends for its interest upon genius, by writers acknowledged to be of the first rank, wholly apart from their contributions to magazines. In this summation of features I am not considering a magazine's contents taking a whole year into the view; a single number will contain something of nearly all this varied entertainment. The articles will not be elaborate, as in a review, but concisely comprehensive, suggestive and illuminative; they are just what cultivated readers want."

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT CONGRESS.

THE twenty-sixth congress of the International Copyright Association will be held at Marseilles from September 24 to 29, inclusive. With the exception of a meeting at Monaco in 1897, this is the first occasion upon which the assemblies held on French soil have not met in the capital. Among the questions to be dealt with will be the further revision of the Berne convention, the protection of engineering works, and the copyright of historical publications and criticisms. Other subjects for discussion will be the protection of architectural works, introduced by M. Georges Harmand; the proposed new legislation in France relating to photographs; the position of musical works, put forward by MM. Jean Lobel and Paul Wauvermans, while M. Jules Lermina will discuss the right of translation in countries where several languages are spoken.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ISIDOR KELLER, professor of German at Normal College, New York City, died August 29 on board the steamer Pennsylvania of the Hamburg-American line. Professor Keller was born in Pinne, Posen, in 1844, and was educated at the University of Berlin. In 1868 he came to this country and for four years taught German in the Hoboken Academy. He left the academy in 1878 to become president of the German-American Teachers' Seminary in Milwaukee. In 1885 he became principal of the German-American School of the Nineteenth Ward, in New York, where he remained until 1892, leaving it to go to the Normal College. He was the author of several textbooks on the German language and literature, the best known of which are "Keller's First and Second Year German."

CHARLES BARZILLAI SPAHR, editor and publisher of Current Literature, is reported to have either fallen or jumped from the deck of the steamship Prince Albert, midway between Ostend and Dover, on September 1. His body has not been recovered. Mr. Spahr was born in Columbus, O., July 20, 1860. He was graduated from Amherst College in 1881. Going abroad he prolonged his studies at Leipzig. He was later made a Ph.D. in the Columbia School of Political Science. Mr. Spahr was the author of "The Present Distribution of Wealth," a work which attracted consideration throughout the United States. He also wrote "America's Working People," essays on "The Taxation of Labor," "The Single Tax" and "Giffen's Case Against Bimetallism." He became a member of the editorial staff of The Outlook in 1886, and dissolved his connection in February this year when he secured a controlling interest in Current Literature.

MORRIS PHILLIPS, who for more than forty years was connected with the New York Home Journal, now Town and Country, died on August 30, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. E. Harby, of Huntington, Long Island, N. Y. Mr. Phillips was born in London, Eng., May 9, 1834. His father was Philip Phillips, the famous singer, who died when Morris was about five years old. The boy was then brought to America to be educated in the public schools of Cleveland, Ohio. His schooling was completed in New York City under private tutors. Then he began the study of law in the offices of Brown, Hall & Vanderpool. In 1854 he became private secretary to General George P. Morris, who with N. P. Willis founded The Home Journal. He became in 1864 co-editor with Mr. Willis, and a few years later was the sole owner of The Home Journal. He was also for a short time owner and editor of the old Knickerbocker Magazine. He has been called "the father of society news in this country." He wrote for many other publications besides those with which he was connected. In 1893 he published a work entitled "Abroad and at Home."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE citizens of Geneva, Switzerland, have presented to Stanley J. Weyman an illuminated and inscribed address and a bust of Calvin in token of their appreciation of his novel of Geneva, "The Long Night."

HENRYK SIENKIEWICZ, the author of "Quo Vadis," has prepared a trilogy entitled "On the Field of Glory," the chief hero being King Sobieski. In the first volume the author shows the king preparing for battle, and gives a picture of the splendor and bravery of the ancient army of Poland; the second volume describes the wars with the Turks, and in the third the victorious king returns to his country covered with glory and blessed by Europe, whose independence he has saved.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

FRANK WEITENKAMPF, of the New York Public Library, contributes to the September issue of The Lamp "The Literature of New Japan: a bibliographical essay."

AN important contribution to the bibliography of Petrarch has been made in the publication of Emilio Calvi's "Bibliografia Analitica Petrarcesca," (Loescher & Co., Rome, 11+102 p. 8°,) issued as a result of the recent Petrarch centennial observances. This supplements Jacopo Ferrazzi's Petrarchan bibliography, carrying the record from 1877 to the present day. Brief summaries are given of the contents of the works recorded. The bibliography shows a remarkable gradual increase in the number of publications dealing with Petrarch, the present rate of issue being about thirty a year.

THE WISCONSIN STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY has just published a valuable consolidated "Index to the Proceedings, 1874-1901," prepared under the editorial direction of the secretary, Dr. Thwaites, by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Haines, (399 p. 8°.) The index is compact, but extremely detailed, recording practically every item of information contained in the twenty-seven volumes of the separately published proceedings of the society. It is in one alphabet, printed in good type, practical and simple in arrangement. Its publication gives a complete index record to the society's proceedings, the earlier volumes being covered by the "Index to the Early Records," in the reprint edition of volume 1. of the "Collections," and the indexes for 1854-85 in the first ten volumes of the "Collections." It is proposed hereafter to publish a five-yearly supplemental index to the present work.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just brought out "An Index to Poetry and Recitations," edited by Edith Granger. The work indexes nearly four hundred standard and popular collections of poetry and recitation-books, including dialogues, orations, drills, etc., the thirty thousand odd titles being arranged alphabetically under three separate heads, viz.: Title, Author and First Line Indexes. The Title Index being the main index, the references from the other two refer to it. There is also a Key to Symbols used in the Title Index, so that the name of the book in which the recitation occurs may be found, together with publisher and price. An appendix containing lists of selection for "special days," such as Arbor Day, Easter, etc., lists of charades, tableaux, etc., and selections relating to noted persons or special subjects, makes the book especially valuable to teachers, librarians and booksellers.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—R. B. Tippet has been appointed receiver for the Maryland Book Company.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Brentano's have discontinued the branch of their business here at 200 Wabash Avenue. The stock of goods will be brought to their New York store.

PRINCETON, IND.—J. A. Kell, bookseller, has sold out to Lamb & Stunkel.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HINDS, NOBLE & ELDREDGE, New York, have secured control of Faunce's "Mechanical Drawing," formerly published by the author.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, New York, will publish shortly another volume of sermons by the Rev. Dr. George Hodges, Dean of Cambridge, entitled "The Human Nature of the Saints."

THE Tauchnitz series now includes 3713 volumes, of which 3378 are by British authors and 335 by American authors. Forty-eight American writers are represented in this showing and 387 British writers.

THE J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING Co. announce for immediate publication a book entitled "Twenty-Five Ghost Stories," compiled by W. B. Holland, the reading of each one of which is guaranteed to cause one to shiver.

THE twenty-second annual convention of the National Association of Newsdealers, Booksellers and Stationers was opened in Liberty Hall, on the World's Fair Grounds at St. Louis, on the 6th inst., by President Thomas E. Martin, and was continued until the 7th inst.

GEORGE D. SPROUL, New York, has in preparation the Bedford edition of Thackeray's complete works. It will be in thirty-two volumes and limited to 1000 sets. Special introductions will be furnished by Walter Herries Pollock, Sir Wemyss Reid, William Archer, Andrew Lang, Austin Dobson, W. M. Rossetti, and others equally well known. The illustrations will be furnished by leading English artists.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly "In Pursuit of Phyllis," a bright romance with many changes of scene, including places in England, France, China, and Ceylon. The hero, ordered abroad for his health, finds a package of letters from a friend of his to an unknown girl, and on a whim tries to find the girl. They are just printing a sixth edition of the late Dr. Osgood Mason's "Telepathy and the Subliminal Self."

THE HOBART COMPANY, New York City, will publish on the 26th inst. a new book by General Charles King, entitled "Comrades in Arms." The story begins with a strange complication at a frontier post in the Black Hills of Dakota shortly before the outbreak of the Spanish-American War. The leading characters are then transported to far distant scenes in the Philippines and the closing chapters bring them and the story back to America. The book is illustrated by George Gibbs and E. W. Deming.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., Boston, have just ready a twelvemo and a sixteenmo edition of "The Story of a Lie," by Robert Louis Stevenson. The sixteenmo issue is a companion volume to the Turner reprints of Stevenson, Swift, Smollett, etc. The twelvemo edition has no photogravures. These books contain "The Story of a Lie," "The Misadventures of John Nicholson" and "The Body Snatcher," stories that are not to be had in the trade editions of Stevenson, and are found only in the subscription editions.

It is said that a volume of prose and verse by the late W. E. Henley may be prepared by Charles Whibley, with a biographical introduction giving personal recollections of the editor's old friend, and with impressions and reminiscences contributed by Walter Blaikie and others associated with Henley on the Scots Observer. Mr. Whibley is well qualified to prepare such a volume. He was not only intimate with Henley, but was associated with him in several literary enterprises, notably "The Tudor Translations," and, in fact, even modelled his style upon that of his senior.

BONNELL, SILVER & BOWERS, New York, will publish on the 20th inst. a volume entitled "Last Hours of Sheridan's Cavalry, or, Grant's Eleven Days' Campaign." The volume describes the pursuit of Lee's army after the fall of Petersburg and Richmond from March 29 to April 17, 1865. It covers the field of operations, the routes of each army corps, and a narrative of the events which led to the surrender of General Lee and his army. The narrative is sufficiently brief and popular in style and character to be of interest to the general reader, while being comprehensive and accurate as a reference for military students.

L. C. PAGE & Co. publish this week "The Cathedrals of England," by Mary J. Taber, giving an account of the distinguishing characteristics of the thirty cathedrals visited, together with brief historical and biographical sketches of their most noted bishops. The volume forms one of The Cathedral Series, and is illustrated with reproductions of photographs and decorative borders. They have also just ready Lillian Bell's charming story, "At Home with the Jardines," which is, in a sense, a sequel to "Abroad with the Jimmies," which has just gone to press for the eighth time; also, "Loyalty Island," by Marian W. Wildman, with illustrations by Etheldred B. Barry.

PAUL ELDER & COMPANY, San Francisco, announce "Yosemite Legends," a rendering by Miss Bertha H. Smith, of the Indian legends, six in number, that enrich the associations of Yosemite Valley. The myths are told in a style refreshingly simple and in harmony with the standards of the Indian character. Miss Smith has happily retained the original Indian names, the titles being "Yosemite," "Po-ho-no," "Hum-moo," "Py-we-ack," "Tu-tock-ah-nu-lah," "Tis-sa-ack," and "Kom-pa-pai-ses." The volume will contain thirteen full-page illustrations, printed in color tones, with marginal, text and end-paper decorations, printed in two colors, from designs by Miss Florence Lundborg.

Public Opinion, of London, for the past five months has been making some interesting contributions to English booktrade history in a number of sketches of English publishing houses. The series thus far includes the histories of the following firms: John Murray, Smith, Elder & Co., Macmillan & Co., Longmans, Green & Co., Blackwood & Sons, Chapman & Hall, Cassell & Co., Chatto & Windus, A. & C. Black, W. & R. Chambers, Wells, Gardner & Co., Geo. Routledge & Sons, Methuen & Co., Ward, Lock & Co., Oxford University Press, A. Constable & Co., The Cambridge University Press, Blackie & Son, G. Bell & Sons, Thomas Nelson & Sons, Grant Richards, and George Newnes & Co.

CHIEF among the new books for boys and girls which the Macmillan Company will issue during the season are: Samuel Rutherford Crockett's "Red Cap Tales," retold for children from four of Scott's novels in the method of Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare;" "Sportsman Joe," by Edwyn Sandys, a worthy successor to "Trapper Jim," by the same author; Miss Georgiana King's attractive book of "Comedies and Legends for Marionettes," explaining fully everything about the children's new fad; Jacob A. Riis's answer to the question which some children asked him, "Is There a Santa Claus?;" E. Nesbit's account of "The Phoenix and the Carpet" and the five children who made wonderful journeys on the latter under the guidance of the former; and "The Ruby Ring," by Mrs. Molesworth.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just issued "The French Nobles of the XVIIIth Century," translated by Mrs. Colquhoun Grant from "Les Souvenirs de la Marquise de Crequy," an almost forgotten work in seven volumes, full of material of lasting interest. Mrs. Grant has selected with discrimination anecdotes and facts about the people whose names still play an important part in history and literature. Louis XIV., Robespierre, Bonaparte, Voltaire, Rousseau, Madame de Stael and many more were known to the old marquise, whose memories covered almost a whole century. They have also just ready two books by the English vegetarian, Eustace H. Miles, forming the first two volumes in a series of six to be known as the How to Keep Well Series, entitled "Good Digestion" and "Some of My Recipes," and a new edition of H. Barton Baker's "History of the London Stage," revised and brought down to date.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. have a promising list of fall publications. In "The Prospector" Ralph Connor enters a new section of country for scene and plot, and sustains the dramatic interest and wholesome vigor shown in his "Sky Pilot;" Norman Duncan's first complete story, "Dr. Luke of The Labrador," shows the charm, subtlety and strong simplicity which have made his stories of New Foundland fisher folk so popular; "Denizens of the Deep," by Frank T. Bullen, is a striking volume of deep-sea lore; and in "Little Miss Dee"—issued uniform with "The Bondage of Ballinger"—Roswell Field has a delightful New England tale. "Children of the Forest" is a romantic Indian story, by Egerton R. Young, and books for children include a life of Christ for the young, by Margaret E. Sangster, entitled "That Sweet Story of Old." They also announce "If I Were a Child Again," by Lucy E. Keeler; and "Little Royalties," by Isabel McDougall.

THE SCOTT-THAW COMPANY, New York, will publish on the 15th inst. the third volume in their series of Noble Authors. The title of the work is "The Golden Ass of Apuleius," translated by William Adlington. The first edition of this now famous translation was printed in 1566, and is one of the rarest books in the English language. A modern reprint of the complete text was made a few years ago and issued in England in the series of Tudor Translations, but unfortunately the editor of that series adopted the ill-printed and late edition of 1639. The edition issued by the Scott-Thaw Company reprints the text of the first edition as faithfully as is consistent with common sense. While words have been corrected, no omissions have been made, and the volume has been in the able editorial hands of George Sampson. The edition is limited to two hundred copies only, and is embellished with a frontispiece and title-page by W. L. Bruckman.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish shortly "The Elements of English Grammar," by W. F. Webster, principal of the East High School at Minneapolis, the text of which is planned to provide work for one school year when assigned four or five recitations a week, or two years with half that number of recitations; the "Riverside Graded Song Book for Elementary Schools," in two parts, one for primary and intermediate grades, and one for grammar grades, edited by William M. Lawrence, principal of the Ray School at Chicago; "Three Years with the Poets," compiled by Bertha Hazard, principal of Miss Hazard's school at Boston, who has brought together a collection of poems which may be memorized during three school years; "Ireland's Story," by Charles Johnston, a simple narrative adapted to the needs of children in grammar school grades; also, "The Story of England's Literature," by Eva March Tappan, author of "Our Country's Story," etc.

THE CENTURY COMPANY'S forthcoming holiday books for boys and girls will include a new Brownie book by Palmer Cox, telling of the adventures of the Brownies in the Philippines; "Kibun Daizin; or, from Shark Boy to Merchant Prince," by a Japanese writer; "Lucy and Their Majesties," in which Mme. Tussaud's wax works figure, by B. L. Farjeon; "Elinor Arden, Royalist," by Mary Constance Du Bois, a story founded upon an actual incident in the life of Princess Henrietta Anne; "Baby Elton, Quarter Back," a book for boys, by Leslie W. Quirk; a new life of Captain John Smith, by Tudor Jenks, and a practical treatise on making a flower garden, told in the form of a story and in a way to interest young folks and help them in laying out a garden. The title of the latter book is "Mary's Garden," and the author, Frances Duncan, is an expert on gardening. They have also in preparation a new book by Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart, entitled "The River's Children," to be illustrated by Harry C. Edwards.

DANA ESTES & Co. will have ready shortly an entirely new translation of the complete works of Tolstoy, edited by Professor Leo Wiener, of Harvard University. The endeavor of the editor has been to give the text complete in every particular and absolutely true to the original, giving everything printed in Russia in the full edition of Tolstoy's works. Besides Tolstoy's writings the edition will contain a comprehensive life of the author, and a bibliography comprising a list not only of Tolstoy's own publications, but also of the books and magazine articles about him in English, German, French and several other languages. Besides this apparatus there will be a chronological table giving the main incidents of Tolstoy's life, a complete analysis of all his writings, and an alphabetical concordance to every thought and idea in Tolstoy's writings. The edition will be complete in twenty-four volumes, set in uniform style in large, clear, well-spaced type, and illustrated with 150 pictures selected from the most authoritative sources, frequently from very rare Russian books and manuscripts, as well as most celebrated paintings.

UNDER the happy title of "After Work: Fragments from the Workshop of an Old Publisher," Edward Marston, F.R.G.S., the veteran head of the house of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., to which post he came so many years ago on the retirement of Sampson Low the elder, is to publish a volume of personal reminiscences covering a connection with the business of bookselling and publishing in Great Britain for over sixty years. It was "in the forties" that Mr. Marston went to London and was engaged by Sampson Low as an assistant, and so came into relation with Macaulay, the Pollocks, G. P. R. James, and other authors, and with the original Harper brothers, and was associated with the start of The Publishers' Circular. From 1856, nearly fifty years ago, when he became a partner in the house, he came more and more into close relations with noted authors, American and English, and some of the reminiscences, as those of Mrs. Stowe, Henry M. Stanley and others will add much to the biographical data as to those distinguished people. It will thus be seen that the book will be of particular interest to the trade and of general interest to the reading public. William Heinemann will be the English publisher, and Charles Scribner's Sons the American publishers.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have in preparation a work by the Rev. Dr. G. B. F. Hallock, entitled "Growing Toward God," which treats of the comfort of prayer, the sympathy of Christ, etc.; "Cruising for the Cross," by the Rev. Charles A. S. Dwight, a fascinating sea story, presenting an all-around-the-world voyage in the interests of evangelistic work; "The Daily Pathway," by Margaret E. Sangster, treating of keeping one's word, a talent for living, etc.; "A History of American Revivals," by Dr. Frank G. Beardsley; "The Teachings of Jesus Concerning God the Father," by the Rev. Dr. Alexander T. Robertson, and "The Teachings of Jesus Concerning the Scriptures," by the Rev. David J. Burrell, two new volumes in the series on the Teachings of Jesus; "Nameless Women of the Bible," by the Rev. Theron Brown, who takes sixteen of the anonymous female worthies of the Bible and with graphic power tells the story of their lives; "The Religious Life of Famous Americans," by the Rev. Dr. Louis Albert Banks; "Adventures of Jack Philip, Rear-Admiral U. S. N.," based on the private journal of the doughty naval hero, with an introduction by Captain A. T. Mahan; also, "Children and the Home," by Eleanor A. Hunter, a capital book for both children and parents.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just brought out Sir Gilbert Parker's new novel, "A Ladder of Swords," illustrated by the Kinneys; "The Georgians," by Will N. Harben, the central figure of which is Abner Daniel, the kindly, shrewd old Southern farmer who gave his name to a previous story of Mr. Harben's; "The Castle Comedy," by Thompson Buchanan, the scenes of which are laid in England in the time of Napoleon I.; a new story of New England life for girls, by Miss Ellen Douglas Deland, entitled "Josephine;" "Imperator et Rex," by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress," who, in the present book, deals with the German emperor "as he really is;" also, a new volume of poems, by Will Carleton, entitled "Over the Hills from the Poorhouse," a sequel to the author's "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse." They will publish next week Joseph Conrad's new novel, "Nostromo," the scenes of which are laid in a South American republic, the hero being a Genoese sailor; "The Flower of Youth," a new romance by Roy Golfe Gilson, author of "In the Morning Glow," etc., who writes of the byways of domestic life rather than of the crowded highways; also, Gertrude Smith's new story for small children, entitled "Little Precious," illustrated and bound as a companion volume to the author's "Roggie and Reggie Stories," etc.

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY, Boston, will bring out on the 20th inst. the long-promised work on physical culture, entitled "Health, Strength and Power," by Dr. Dudley Allen Sargent, director of the Hemenway Gymnasium, Harvard University, etc. The author, who is a widely-recognized authority on his subject, is the inventor of most of the gymnastic apparatus now in general use; yet in the present work he has given special attention to a series of exercises that require no apparatus whatever. The book contains over a hundred half-tone illustrations from original photographs furnished by the author. They also call attention to their Red Letter Library a series of handy-volume classics which they are bringing out by arrangement with Blackie & Son. Each volume is complete in itself, and contains an introduction, biographical and critical, by such authorities as George Meredith, Alfred Austin, Frederic Harrison and others of equally high reputation. The volumes now ready are Thackeray's "Four Georges," "Select Essays," by De Quincey, Keble's "The Christian Year," Lamb's "Essays of Elia," "Imitation of Christ," Emerson's "Select Essays," Carlyle's "Select Essays," Oliver Wendell Holmes's "The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table," "An Eighteenth Century Anthology," "Confessions of St. Augustine," "A Seventeenth Century Anthology," De Quincey's "Confessions of an Opium Eater," poems by Robert Herrick and poems by William Cowper.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co.'s fall publications include: "The History of the Standard Oil Company," by Ida M. Tarbell; "Double Harness," by Anthony Hope; "In the Closed Room," by Frances Hodgson Burnett; "The Brethren," by H. Rider Haggard; "The Mountains," by Stewart Edward White; "Blazed Trail Stories," a new volume of stories dealing with life among the lumbermen of the Northwest, by Stewart Edward White; "The House of Fulfilment," by George Madden Martin, the author of "Emmy Lou," "Far from the Maddening Girls," by Guy Wetmore Carryl; "Little Citizens," by Myra Kelly; "Debonnaire," by W. F. Payson; "Cabbages and Kings," by O. Henry; "Indian Fights and Fighters," by Cyrus Townsend Brady; "Andrea, the Tribulations of a Child," from the Danish of Karin Michaelis, translated by J. N. Laurvik; "War and Peace," by Tolstoy, translated by Mrs. Garnett; "The Little Grey House," by Marion Ames Taggart; "Granny's Wonderful Chair," by Frances Browne, with an introduction by Frances Hodgson Burnett; "The Americans," by Hugo Münsterberg; "Russian Literature," by Prince Kropotkin; "French Home Cooking," by Berthe Julienne Low; "The Secret of Popularity," by Emily Holt; "The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth," based on the official records in the British Public Record office, by Martin Hume; "The Homestead," in the Country Home Series, by E. P. Powell; "McClure's Children's Annual for 1905," also, "Monsieur Dupin," a reprint of Poe's mystery tales, with fine illustrations by C. R. Macauley.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have just published "A Yankee on the Yangtze," by William Edgar Geil, the traveller, who crossed the entire breadth of China under the protection of the Imperial Government, ascending the Yangtze almost to its sources, crossing the great upland plains and the mountains of the Shans (wild men) to the Burman border. The opium question and other problems of the Celestials are dealt with, and a thorough study of the effect of missions on the Chinese and the difficulties they have met and overcome are given. Mr. Geil is the first American to ascend the great river on a native gunboat flying the American flag and accompanied by a mandarin specially appointed. The book is illustrated by one hundred full-page photographs, and includes a reproduction in Chinese characters of the Sacred Edict. They will publish shortly "Questions of Faith," a series of lectures on the Creed, by Principal Lindsay, Professor Laidlaw, Dr. James Denny and others, delivered last winter in the Renfield Church at Glasgow; and "Leaves for Quiet Hours," a devotional book, by the Rev. Dr. George Matheson, author of "Moments on the Mount." They have in preparation "St. Paul's Conception of the Last Things," by Rev. H. A. A. Kennedy; "The Eschatology of Jesus," by the Rev. Lewis A. Muirhead; "The Master's Questions to His Disciples," by the Rev. G. H. Knight; "The Spirit of God," by Professor Irving F. Wood, of Smith College; "A History of Preaching," by Professor A. C. Dargan, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; "Thirty Years in Madagascar," by the Rev. T. Matthews, of the London Missionary Society; a study of the Esquimaux, by the Rev. Mr. Peck; also, a magnificent architectural book, entitled "British Homes of To-Day," edited by W. Shaw Sparrow, to which leading English authorities contribute. For the Christmas trade they will offer some attractive juveniles, with colored illustrations.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

WHEN I was travelling in the United States some twelve years ago I bought a book in paper cover, for 50 cents, to read on a railway journey. The tale was a singular one, of the Jules Verne type, on the X-ray subject, and I should much like to refer to the story, as at this distance of time I cannot remember the details. Its title was, I believe, the "Arc-Ray" or "Acme-Ray," or "Alpha-Ray," but I cannot remember the author's name. It described an apparatus which threw a ray of immense power on the ground and dissolved earth or rock layer by layer into invisibility, so that apparently a circular shaft existed which displayed on its sides the various geological formations through which it passed. Also I think there was something about descending to the centre of the earth, but this part I even forget if it were in the same volume. This is, however, of no importance, as it is the X-ray business that I have occasion to read again. Can any of your readers help me in tracing the book. B. M. RITSO.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NOW READY

Publishers' Trade List Annual 1904

This volume, as heretofore, includes the new catalogues and lists of the year—three hundred and twenty-six in all—and supersedes the previous issue. The price of this volume of over 5000 pages is $2, (cloth bound, with Denison thumb index), and there is no guide to books which furnishes so much information at so low a cost.

NEARLY READY

THE COMBINED INDEX, 1903-1904

The new Index, combining in one alphabet supplementary material for 1903 and 1904, will make a volume of nearly 500 pages, and the price, instead of $2.50 as originally announced, will therefore be $3, except to subscribers whose remittances at $2.50 are received before publication day of the Index, September 15th. This alphabet is supplementary to the original Index of 1902, and the Combined Index (covering the original 1902 Index and the Supplementary 1903-4 Index) can be had at $7—or previous to September 15th, at $6.

COMRADES IN ARMS

By GENERAL CHARLES KING

A TALE OF TWO HEMISPHERES

Illustrations by GEORGE GIBBS and E. W. DEMING

IN this new story by this popular author will be found a plot entirely different from anything he has previously done, but of the most intense and exciting interest. It begins with a most strange complication at a frontier post in the Black Hills of Dakota shortly before the outbreak of the Spanish War. The leading characters are then transported to far distant scenes in the Philippines, and the closing chapters bring them and the story back to America. It is in three parts:

Part I. What Happened in the West

Part II. What Happened in the East

Part III. What Happened in the End

The reader will renew acquaintance with some old friends and will be richly entertained by the experiences of men and women of army life, which none can better depict than this charming writer.

The President

Novel

By Alfred Henry Lewis

Author of "THE BOSS".

12mo, Cloth. Illustrated in colors by Jay Hambidge

$1.50

"The President" is more thoroughly a novel than "The Boss" in the development of love interest and intrigue. But the author has drawn upon his extraordinary knowledge of the inside of political life and he tells a remarkable story. "The President" is a book that will be heard from everywhere.

READY SEPTEMBER 15th

The Pagan's Progress

By Gouverneur Morris

Author of "Aladdin O'Brien," etc.

12mo, Cloth. Illustrated by John Rae. Facsimile frontispiece in colors.

$1.00

Mr. Morris's originality may be counted upon for the unexpected. His story is original in that the primitive man really lives and loves in his pages. There are scenes thrilling with adventure, warfare, jealousy and fierce revenge, and there are touches of delightful humor. How the Pagan fought and loved is shown in the singularly graphic pages of this fresh and stirring romance of the days when the world was young.
